Wonder why you can not reach liberals? Why they eliminate the truth and base answers on emotion? Why having a conversation is almost impossible?
Please get this video out ASAP. This is a must watch video. The actual lessons showing the purpose of school= psychological manipulation.
Children become emotional powder kegs. Gone - logic, reason, truth, fact. And where are these children today? - IN CONGRESS and other government positions.

The pure evil of these lessons is evident today by just listening to the talking heads in key government positions and how little they know.
These people are evil. Every text should be replaced. As long as evil is in charge of education, America and the American people are at risk.
It is the content of the material and the Pavlovian method of teaching that must be changed. Eliminating Common Core without eliminating all texts and methods will not solve anything.

What a week for Common Core opposition!

http://gallery.mailchimp.com/e79c0dbba9d7d3ddff00baba8/images/NoCommonCore_logo_Comp4.jpg

The week began with an "informational briefing" headed by Deputy Education Secretary Carolyn Dumaresq on Tuesday, May 14, before the House Education Committee. While no Common Core opponents were allowed to present opposing views, we were well represented at the hearing by attendees who proudly wore buttons like the one to the left to indicate their opposition. Significantly, we are hopeful to meet shortly with key leaders from the Committee to discuss our rationale for halting implementation of these untested standards.

Later that day, Secretary of Education Tomalis announced his resignation< after weeks of increasing opposition to his and Governor Corbett's support for the Common Core. We are hopeful that this signals a change in the Governor's support for Common Core. Governor Corbett quickly named William E. Harner as the Tomalis' replacement. Please continue to apply pressure on Governor Corbett by calling him at 717-787-2500 and email him to saichele@pa.gov <mailto:saichele@pa.gov> to ask him stop or "pause" Common Core in Pennsylvania.

Also on Tuesday, Senator Dinniman, minority chair of the Education Committee introduced legislation that will halt implementation of the modified Keystone Exams (Common Core) until the state Department of Education answers critical questions about the local impact of the modifications. Senate Bill 943<http://pasenategop.com/committees/education/2013/051513/pm/McCluskey.pdf> calls for prohibiting the state Department of Education from taking any action toward implementing the testing until the state Board of Education completes a number of requirements including: a report on the costs of the exams; a summary of the changes that are proposed and the local impact of the modification, among other provisions. Senator Dinniman stated "The problem with Common Core is that these regulations make no mention of the state dollars necessary to cover the costs of the very programs they call for. These are costs that will undoubtedly be passed directly onto Importantly, on Wednesday, May 15th, the Senate Education Committee held a true informational hearing that was originally scheduled for 1 1/2 hours, but ended up lasting much longer. Representing opponents of Common Core were an outstanding trio of education intellectual heavyweights:

We are expecting a bill to halt or "pause" Common Core implementation in Pennsylvania in the PA House shortly.

All in all, we had a very productive week, but need to keep the pressure up or even increase it in order to stop Common Core. Your work in lobbying Harrisburg is moving the pivot point, let's bring it home for the sake of our children and grandchildren.

If you would like to express your desire that the Commonwealth put a halt to implementation of Common Core, the first phone call and email should be directed to your local Representative Letter sent to AARP.

... Once upon a time, we looked forward to being part of the senior demographic. We also looked to AARP to provide certain benefits and give our voice a power we could not possibly hope to achieve on our own. AARP once gave us a sense of belonging which we no longer enjoy. The Socialist politics practiced by the Obama Regime and empowered by AARP serves only to raise the blood pressure my medical insurance strives to contain. Clearly a conflict of interest there! We do not understand the AARP posture, feel greatly betrayed by the guiding forces that we expected to map out our senior years and leave your ranks with a great sense of regret. We mitigate that disappointment with the relief of knowing that we are not contributing to the problem anymore by renewing our membership. There are numerous other organizations which offer discounts without threatening our way of life or offending our sensibilities and values...

The Great Planning Debate:

"Plan Bay Area ... Is it good for the region?"

Is it good for Marin?"

(If you are from Marin or the other North Bay Counties, please try to attend. If you are not from Marin, demand something similar in your county. The public needs to know about this plan.)

Thursday, May 30th, 6:30pm - 8:30pm

Marin Civic Center Board of Supervisors Chamber

MAY 1st 2013, San Rafael, California: Plan Bay Area stands to make significant changes to housing and transit across the Bay Area - favoring and incentivizing cities and counties that plan high density housing around transit - sometimes referred to as "smart growth". The Institute for Leadership Studies at Dominican University is sponsoring a meeting of the minds on this subject, bringing together four leading figures on both sides of the plan.

Panelists supporting Plan Bay Area are possibly the top two speakers on this topic:

Steve Kinsey, MTC commissioner and Marin County Supervisor and Mark Luce, Napa County Supervisor and President of the Association of Bay Area Governments (ABAG).

Both hold leadership positions in the two agencies that developed Plan Bay Area.

Opposing Plan Bay Area are two of the strongest opponents in the US to the transit oriented development and smart growth approaches proposed by Plan Bay Area: Randal O'Toole of the Cato institute, author of "Gridlock" and Thomas Rubin, an Oakland based transportation consultant and former Chief Financial Officer of Southern California Rapid Transit District (1989-1994).

FYI: the bill history will show "Signed by Officers and presented to Governor" and from that date entry there is a 15 day time frame when Gov Scott can sign, veto, or allow to pass into law without his signature.

HB 87 (and by the way, another very controversial bill on gun control related to mentally ill persons with a history of psych admissions HB 1355) has no such entry yet. If you want to check the BILL HISTORY section, it's here - scroll down & you'll see that the last entry is Ordered enrolled. Next, the legislature leaders, I think the Senate Pres, the House Speaker, and maybe others, will sign off on it and present it to the Governor. That entry is "Signed by Officers and presented to Governor". Then the bill will show up on the Governor's 2013 Bill Action webpage here: <http://www.flgov.com/bill-action/>

Supposedly, it's a passive process for the Officers to sign off, but the delay sure is curious.

I do not know if there is a certain time frame for the Officers to sign the bill. I'm still working on getting that info from the legislature staffers.

With the cash infusion to the courts to process foreclosures (most galling that the cash is from the National Mortgage Settlement), the new Florida Supreme Court directives on speeding up foreclosure case clearance rates, and the fact that many circuit courts are setting thousands of cases for quickie 2 minute trials, HB 87 may be a moot point.

Thank you all for expending your time, energy, effort, and resources to voluntarily step into the public fray as an activist on this issue. Unless the banks increase their refusal to publish public sales notices and/or their cancellation rate of all these foreclosure trial court scheduled sales or simply refuse to pursue writs of possession, it's going to get a lot worse in a few months when thousands of cleared cases go to foreclosure auction.
